NEW BOOKS, Autumn 2019

Vol. 356 The British Armed Forces
With more people leaving the Armed Forces than are joining, the forces are facing a recruitment crisis. In this book we look at the issues faced by military personnel in their service, and those that can affect veterans when they return to ‘civvy street’. We also look at public opinion of the forces and what is being done to improve the lives of those who are serving and have served.

ISBN: 978 1 86168 812 5
Replacing Vol. 289 The Military & Society

Vol. 357 The Climate Emergency
In May 2019 the UK government declared a climate emergency. Environmental activism has never been more vocal and widespread. Greta Thunberg, David Attenborough and Extinction Rebellion have been omnipresent in the news, urging individuals and governments to act, now. In this book we look at the causes and consequences of this global crisis and possible ways to tackle it.

ISBN: 978 1 86168 813 2
Replacing Vol. 286 Climate Change Debate

Vol. 358 Religion Today
Religion can be a contentious subject, due to strongly held individual beliefs. But, according to Article 9 in The Human Rights Act we all have the right to express our opinions on religion freely. In this book we explore opinions on various aspects of religion in the UK and around the world, such as religious freedom and how young people really feel about religion.

ISBN: 978 1 86168 814 9
Replacing Vol. 285 Faith & Religion

Vol. 359 Migration & Immigration
Migration and immigration is a complex and often controversial topic, particularly in light of Brexit and the ongoing refugee crisis. This book looks at immigrants, asylum seekers and refugees. It considers the push and pull factors behind the different types of migration, our attitudes towards immigration and the contribution migrants make to our society.

ISBN: 978 1 86168 815 6
Replacing Vol. 284 Refugees

Vol. 360 Government
A part of being a good citizen is having an understanding of how your country is governed and how your vote matters. In this book we explore how the UK government is run, how laws are made and the importance of democracy. It also looks at other issues, such as different voting systems, and how our government compares to others around the world.

Vol. 361 Cyberbullying
Cyberbullying is sadly on the rise, particularly among young people. One in four people in the UK (23%) say they have experienced some form of cyberbullying. It can happen to anyone at any time and usually takes place through social media platforms, but also through online gaming, text messaging and websites. This book looks at different types of cyberbullying, the impact it has on victims and considers methods to deal with it.
